

DAY 6 - My Most Important Takeaway is...

Lots of good, practical information about the differences between supervision and evaluation

Differences between evaluation and supervision

The importance of the TQS

the legal technicalities are key scheduling of supervision

I have a much clearer picture of supervision and evaluation

Importance of TQS and focussing on documentation

Great review of a critical piece of documentation we will surely need to know well.

Always call the ATA to make sure you are following regulations.

Enjoyed the interactive nature and number of break outs. Thank you for all the information in regards to process and practices that should occur for evaluation.

Really using TQS to formulate the supervision.

Difference between supervision and evaluation.

Love the Claim, Evidence, Interpretation, Judgement model!

Enjoyed the interactive nature and number of break outs. Thank you for all the information in regards to process and practices that should occur for evaluation.

The importance of ongoing supervision and understanding the difference between supervision and evaluation.

Supervision is all about providing guidance and support to teachers.

Process and the Claim, Evidence, Interpretation and Judgement chart

The strategies learned for doing effective supervisions.

Difference between conduct and competency

Everything! It was an excellent session. I wish it was longer. This one really covered so much information. I think it was really helpful for new admin. Wonderful session.

Supervision of teachers should be about celebrating teaching, support and guidance of the teacher, learn about what is going on in classrooms, gather information about what training or areas you should offer.

The supports in place and guidelines on providing supervision for teachers, and how that can transition to evaluation.

Importance of keeping good documentation and better knowledge on the Teacher Supervision and Evaluation Process

call the ATA when you have questions

How to apply TQS, I also love the overlap with yesterday and how we can combine: visibility, constant visits to the classroom, focus on the positives (to help encourage even more of this) when we are visiting classes!

I love the idea of supervision with a specific TQS competency in mind. It is like co-creating assessment and provides clarity for everyone involved.

My primary role is to support the growth and learning of teachers.

The importance of being well versed so when we need to supervise we are concise and follow the rules!

be organized, communicate with all teachers, follow policies

The importance of record-keeping.

Competence based on TQS and Conduct is not

Create a Supervision Plan - share with Admin Assistant and to review one competency at every staff meeting and look at the indicators as they apply to our school. Supervision can look for the competency reviewed for that month.

Process for evaluation and creating a consistent supervision schedule. The sharing of resources and collaboration opportunity.

Supervision is important to provide support and instruction for teacher growth, to collect evidence to protect teachers when needed. In some circumstances evidence collected through supervision may lead to evaluation.

Be informed of the LQS and TQS

If it's not your Monkey... don't take it

Konni is a wealth of knowledge. I have a better idea of resources available to help guide and support teachers.

ATA is there to support us also!

The Evaluation Data-how important it is to back up your claim.

Documenting is of the utmost importance—particularly documenting as evidence for feedback.

Understanding the process to follow when completing supervisions or evaluations.

Regular observation and clear expectations are key. Love the idea of co-constructing criteria around what the TQS looks like within your school context. Also creating a supervision schedule. Thanks!

Taking notes! Specific, dated, and concrete notes.

Supervision is about supporting the teacher

Strategies for evaluation

Be aware of the legal requirements

Always relate teacher supervision practices to the TQS.

I have a lot of reading to do!

I want to re-take the Teacher Supervision and Evaluation document, document, document

The importance of fair observation.

Difference between Supervision and Evaluation

Set up a schedule for supervision, be purposeful and consistent.

Follow the process. Supervision and evaluation is centered on teacher growth.

Very important topic and there are many great resources available at the ATA

Supervision should be continuous, should be as part of being a visible presence in the school and should be done with the students' well being and education in mind

support and guidance as our supervision lense

Make supervision CLEAR, CLEAR, CLEAR. Be as transparent as possible.

to follow proper process in helping teachers with their growth and guidance

The outcomes of the evaluation, the difference between supervision and evaluation, etc.
